

Tourism traffic stable in area

Most of Canada might have been feeling the pinch in the tourist business, but Bob Stinson, Manager of the Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce said that things were about usual in this area.

Mr. Stinson said he hears a few figures from the province on the downward trends in the tourist industry including one which shows a 75 per cent drop in the business and another which has it down 15 per cent.

In the Haliburton Highlands, Mr. Stinson said, the occasional campers number is down and he attributed the cooler weather as one of the factors.

The resort business finds itself "up, holding its own down in some cases."

Mr. Stinson said that the reports that have generally kept upgrading and have good promotional campaigns are at least holding their own this year. "The ones that haven't improved are down," he said. Mr. Stinson pointed out that the resort business is extremely competitive and is "getting more so."

The weather has been a factor in the resort business as opposed to housekeeping cottages. Mr. Stinson noted that people staying at resorts can leave after a few days and not pay for the rest of the week where people renting cottages have to pay for the week whether they stay or not.

He said that there were a number of cancellations at housekeeping cottages this year but the chamber has been able to provide assistance in filling these vacancies.

Mr. Stinson said that the highlands and the rest of the tourist business in Canada was likely helped by having a 10 week summer instead on nine like last year.

Highway bridge not closing

Douglas White, district engineer for the Ministry of Transportation and Communications, said this week there is no danger of the Portage Bridge on Highway 35 north of Minden being closed.

Fair chilled by weather

Bad luck with the weather put a chill on the Haliburton County Fair held in Minden over the weekend.

Richard Parisotto, one of the organizers of the fair joked that about all they didn't get was snow. On Sunday Mr. Parisotto admitted that the bad weather did not help the turnout at the fair.

He told THE RECORDER that there is nothing that could be done about the weather and the committee in charge can just hope for better results next year.

Mr. Parisotto said that planning will begin very soon on next years events.

The bad weather this year started on Saturday with rain and on Sunday below seasonal temperatures and a strong wind did not help the gate.

For pictures and stories on the fair see pages 6 and 7.

Mr. White said that traffic has to be stopped for three or four minute intervals while welding is done to the underside of the bridge in order to stop the vibrations.

He said that in the past few weeks the bridge has been checked a number of times by officials from the MTC head office in Toronto.

The work on the repairs to the bridge is being conducted now.

Mr. White said that the MTC has had a man stationed at the bridge in order to keep adjusting support jacks and guarding against vandals tampering with the jacks.

Mr. White also pointed out that a gage was put on the bridge to check the amount of stress and noted that if it had got too high damage could have been done to the surface of the structure.

Rape charge laid

An incident July 13 in Minden has resulted in a Minden area man being charged with rape with gross indecency.

Daniel Paul Warburton, RR 1 Minden, 24, has been charged in an incident involving an 18-year-old girl who was working in the area for the summer.

Scott Callow, 10, of Huntsville seems to be relaxed in the bubblegum bubble blowing contest at the Haliburton County Fair. Scott didn't take top prize but this bubble was one of the biggest seen all day. For more stories and pictures on the fair see pages 6 and 7.

Minden Memo

By Aileen Blears 286-2351

For the next few weeks this column will deal with (what I sincerely hope will be) general interest subjects. This week Cranberry Glass.

"Cranberry Glass offers a fascinating yet inexpensive field for the budding antique collector. It is only just beginning to attract attention, and there is still quite a bit around at prices that will not shatter a modest budget. And since it is certain to become more valuable in the years ahead, cranberry glass can also be thought of as a sound investment."

This interesting paragraph appeared in a 1969 issue of Canadian Homes, and as you know cranberry glass has indeed become valuable and a desired item on the antique collector's shopping list.

What is cranberry glass?

A considerably quantity of this colourful glass - known as ruby glass in England - was mass produced for everyday use during the Victorian era. Deep, rich reds were used extensively in the plush interiors of this period, and the Victorians sought the same colours in their household glassware: wine glasses, flower vases, salt dishes, bowls, cookie jars, jugs, decanters, whiskey glasses and water tumblers.

Much of the cranberry glass was perfectly plain, with no decoration at all, but a number of pieces had handles or frills applied in clear glass. The Victorians were great imitators, and they also produced ruby glass decorated in the style of Bohemian glassware that had become popular after its introduction at the Great Exhibition of London in 1851. To imitate the Bohemian glass, some English glassmakers produced cased or flashed ruby glass, and decorated it with gold designs.

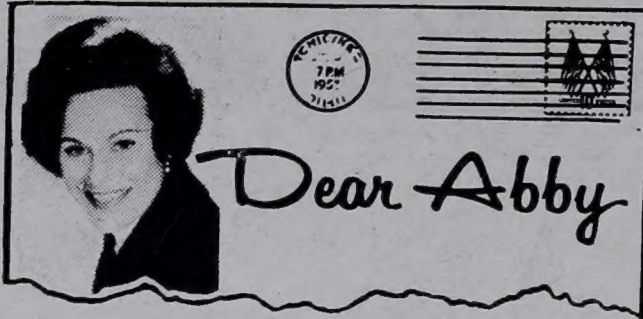

Cased glass was made by covering a clear glass vessel with as many as four layers of coloured glass, and then cutting a design through it to the clear glass. Flashed glass was a simpler, cheaper method - the clear glass vessel was cooled, then dipped into molten coloured glass.

Red glass, coloured with copper, has been known since earliest times. All the red Egyptian and Roman glass was coloured this way. Around the end of the 17th century, however, glassmakers in Potsdam, Germany, devised a formula for producing a rich, ruby-red glass covered with gold chloride instead of copper. The colour was developed by cooling the glass slowly under water, and it yielded a much more uniform tone than had been produced with copper. Real gold was used in some of the Victorian ruby glass, but gold could not have been used extensively in the manufacture of common cranberry glass. Probably only the finest pieces were coloured with the precious metal. Unfortunately, there is no simple way to distinguish between them, although some experts claim that cranberry glass made with copper has an amber-reddish tint, while that made with gold has a blue-violet tint.

It is also thought that because of the high cost of the gold-toned glass, and because of the intensity of its colour, most of it would have been used for cased glass, a comparatively thin overlay of coloured glass on a clear body. There is recent evidence that Canadian cranberry glass was made at the Burlington Glass Works in Hamilton between 1875 and 1909, but it is not known whether this was made from gold or copper.

During the last few years, the early cranberry glass has been buried by a flood of modern reproductions. There are generally thicker and heavier than the real thing, and the colour often has a false iridescent sheen, or reveals off-shades of purple and orange instead of the true ruby or pinky red of cranberry glass. With the growing interest in this glass, it is certain to become even scarcer and more expensive. If you have some good pieces, hold on to them. If you would like to collect some, start now.

Here are some tips for the novice antique collector. Don't let friends and neighbours influence you. Remember that you are going to make mistakes so just try to keep them as inexpensive as possible. Consider your budget and the space you have available for antiques (a carved oak dining room suite does not show to advantage in a bachelor apartment). Start with a small collection, possibly a window collection or even old buttons. A good rule to follow when bidding at an auction is: when a antique dealer is bidding on an item, the next bid after he has quit is a good one (but no higher). You can sometimes pick up a good antique at a church white elephant sale or a community flea market, and they are fun outings.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 17-year-old girl who is reasonably intelligent and quite attractive, so I'm told. My problem has to do with boys. I have no trouble getting dates with guys my age or a little older.

The problem comes when I am with some boy I like and we are out on a dark country road, or for that matter on the couch in my living room. I am not a virgin, but I'm not a tramp by any means.

I don't want to say no. I want him to go on and on, and never stop. I know I should stop him, but when I do, I feel so frustrated afterward, I want to die.

Why shouldn't I enjoy myself? I don't mean with every guy that comes along, only the one I feel something special for. "This time I'll keep it innocent," I tell myself, but kissing and cuddling build up until I am desperate to have the boy make love to me.

Is lust normal at my age? What is really wrong with going all the way if you really care for someone?

NORMAL AND HEALTHY AT 17

DEAR NORMAL: "Lust" (which is another word for sexual desire) IS perfectly normal in all healthy teenagers. but if you expect me to give you permission to go all the way, you're asking the wrong person.

When you are sufficiently mature in your judgments to make your own decisions, take full responsibility for your actions and handle the consequences, you won't ask me (or anyone else) for advice.

DEAR ABBY: I hope you won't think this question is too dumb to answer. I am a 12-year-old Catholic girl who goes to church every Sunday and I would ask my priest, but I'm afraid he would laugh at me. I have always wanted to be an altar boy.

Is it possible for a girl to be an altar boy or not?

HOLY IN CALIFORNIA

DEAR HOLY: Traditionally, only boys can be altar boys, but the Catholic church has made many changes this past decade, and perhaps you will live long enough to see girls serving the Mass.

DEAR ABBY: For several years now we have sent our son-in-law a check for his birthday. We used to buy him gifts, but it is so hard to pick out a gift to please a 28-year-old man, we thought a check made more sense.

We have never received a thank-you, verbal or written. He and our daughter live here in town, and we see them fairly often, so it would be a simple matter for him to say, "Thank you for the check."

The only way we know that he has received these checks is because they come back cancelled with our bank statement.

Our son-in-law is not dumb. He went to college. He has a birthday coming up soon, and I'm considering sending him a card so he won't think we've forgotten him—but no check this time. His money is easier to come by than ours. Or should I just forget his birthday altogether?

PUZZLED

DEAR PUZZLED: I would.

A big loss has been a drop in American tourists. Mr. Stinson said that the bicentennial celebrations in the United States has contributed to this. He noted that because the tourist associations and the province realized that there would be a drop in American tourists most of the advertising money was spent in the Golden Horseshoe area of the province.

He added that speaking to merchants in the area most feel that the turnover was up slightly this year. One local garage owner told Mr. Stinson that his gasoline gallonage was up 35 to 45 per cent this year.

Many are fined under Provincial Park Act

In recent years a great deal of concern has been expressed over increases in rowdiness and vandalism in Ontario's Provincial Parks. If a recent court session held in Whitney is any indication, then Algonquin Park's staff is doing its best to reverse current trends. A total of sixty charges were laid under the Provincial Parks Act, the Fisheries Regulations and the Game and Fish Act. The cases were heard on Friday, August 13, 1976, and offenders may be putting more stock in the old superstition, as fines ranged from $28.00 to $200.00.

Twenty-seven of the charges were laid under the Provincial Parks Act. These involved such offences as - camping without a permit, using abusive language or excessive noise and re-entering a park within 72 hours of an eviction.

Cottagers often overlooked

In a highly competitive year when most Ontario tourism establishments suffered an extensive decline in trade, Haliburton County establishments seem to have fared rather well according to Bob Stinson, manager of the Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce. And this is spite of some neglect from the Ministry of Industry and Tourism.

Although some portions of the industry in the area were down, retailers generally reported an uptrend in business as did, according to Mr. Stinson, the reports that undertook upgrading and good promotional programs.

One of the reasons that retailers and services reported a good year was due to the heavy summer home or "cottage" population. This aspect of the tourism business is often overlooked and it is our opinion that more emphasis should be placed on this sector that contributes healthily to the Haliburton County economy.

Many cottagers are introduced to this area by initially staying at a resort, housekeeping cabin or campground and decide that this is where they want to invest their money to purchase a summer home. The amounts of money spent initially by the cottager is considerably greater than the transient tourist. Once he has established himself here as a "summer resident", his "summer abode" even throughout the winters. His tax dollars help to keep the roads plowed in winter, help provide many of the services we enjoy.

And when he reaches retirement age he realizes a long time dream; he becomes a permanent resident of the Haliburton Highlands.

The "cottager" is indeed a valuable member of our Highland community and it would be a wise investment on the part of municipalities, chambers, retailers and in fact, all of us, to protect this asset.

OLYMPIC PICKLE SEASON

Another viewpoint

Ontario's economic outlook for the remainder of the year is "moderately optimistic" states the 1975-76 Industry, Trade and Tourism Review published by the Ontario Ministry of Industry and Tourism.

Claude Bennett, Minister says that while the province today faces some critical economic realities, he sees 1976 in a light of optimism.

During 1975, Ontario's exports totalled $12.5 billion, an increase in value of $100 million over 1974. A $500 million growth in the value of end products--the sector which contains the bulk of Ontario's manufactured exports--was also noted.

Ontario's economic prosperity, the report states, depends largely on its export performance. In 1975, 20 per cent of the Gross Provincial Product was exported. Some 90 per cent of Ontario's exports go to two markets--the United States and the United Kingdom.

This year it is anticipated Ontario's economy may grow at a rate of four to six per cent. Economic recovery abroad, most notably in the U.S. and Japan, is expected to provide a major stimulus to Canadian exports.

Rising personal disposable income will help maintain consumer expenditures. Business investment in plants, machinery and equipment is expected to be at least at 1975 levels.

Pre-tax corporate profits are expected to improve to a rate of 13 per cent, although the impact of the Anti-Inflation Board guidelines is still being weighed.

Despite an anticipated growth output, national unemployment figures are expected to deteriorate from the 7.1 per cent level of 1975.

Inflation is forecast at 9.5 per cent compared with 11 per cent last year.

Merchandise imports and exports are expected to balance, an improvement from the $800 million deficit recorded in 1975.

Letters to the Editor

I would like to commend you on your editorial August 18 "Area needs public health nurses."

The lock out of nurses in this area is shameful and regrettable by our local board of health. Of the other thirty eight boards of health in Ontario in a similar situation, only one other has used this disgraceful method to starve the nurses to submission.

This board gave parity to its nurses last year and now claims that they are not worthy of this historical relationship!

Because of the confidentiality of her work, the Public Health Nurses role and worth has not been understood by the general public and local officials.

It appals me that these officials have refused the talk with the nurses and learn of the broad scope of their work. As a taxpayer and voter in this area I am registering my concern and annoyance that this essential service has been withdrawn from our community.

We must get the nurse back to their work. The community and the nurses have suffered greatly since May.

Then we should take a questioning look at our elected officials who seem to have such narrow vision.

One foot in the furrow' by Bob Trotter

Letters are appreciated by Bob Trotter, Eldale Rd., Elmira, Ont. N3B 2C7

Regular readers of this column are aware that the writer spent a vacation in northern Quebec this year.

It was the second trip in three years and probably the last.

Isn't it about time the rest of Canada urged Quebec to separate, set them free to go their own way?

By "them," I mean the whole province because it is now a case of them and us. Just spend a few days outside of Montreal and you will find that it is a case of them and us and the choice is theirs, not mine.

I went both times with what I felt was an open mind, ready to try to understand their problems but I got no help in understanding from them. My pitiful attempts — and I readily admit the attempts were pitiful — to converse in my high school French were met with blank stares and even hostility.

The question is not whether Quebec should be permitted to separate from Canada but whether Canada shouldn't consider kicking Quebec out of confederation.

For 109 years, the rest of this country has patiently put up with various forms of political blackmail.

When Robert Bourassa took over the government of Quebec, I thought a sensible man had finally come to power to refute the muddled concepts of Daniel Johnson and Rene Levesque and the rest of the politicians in a long line of corruption. But his language bill just fills me with disgust.

I have made it a point to talk to a number of people who have moved out of Quebec. They, especially the females, found the situation intolerable. They were isolated from society, not just by language but because of all the other things that would be accepted in most parts of this country.

"I honestly tried to learn French," said one young mother I met recently. "I took lessons and tried very hard to converse. But simply because I was an Anglo-Saxon Protestant, I was rebuffed, even sneered at, and sometimes jeered, by the Francophones."

Maybe the same thing happens to Francophones in the rest of Canada. Maybe they feel the same way about Toronto, for instance. All the more reason why Quebec should be allowed to separate, even encouraged. And I say this realizing fully the great men of French Canada who helped make this country a wonderful place in which to live. I have admired their history, their culture, their great deeds, their valor, their vision.

Perhaps it is just the backlash from my visit to Quebec but I think, probably in a perverse way, that the Quebec terrorists of 1970 were simply more honest than a host of other French-speaking politicians who have battered away at confederation for 109 years.

I can think of no other culture which was allowed to develop after a conquest the way the Habitants were allowed after the Plains of Abraham.

And how would the Maritime Provinces survive, separated from the rest of the country? The same as Hawaii does, a state separated from mainland U.S. by more than a thousand miles of water. The same as St. Pierre and Miquelon, off the coast of Newfoundland which belong to France.

Maybe it's my own WASPish prejudices showing. Maybe I'm getting old and jaded, too tired to hold my chins — both of them — up while trying to understand just what it is that French Canada desires of me.

Perhaps, too, it's all the fofoeraw about the Olympics that has me defensive these days and Jean Drapeau's pregnancy. He did say, didn't he, that it would be easier for a man to get pregnant than for the Montreal Olympics to have a deficit? I hear he's been on the phone recently to Dr. Morgenthaler.

Maybe next week I'll feel better but right now, Quebec can go its own way and I, for one, wish them well.

H.H.S.S. welcomes new principal

Brian Mosgrove has re-joined the staff at Haliburton Highlands Secondary School as principal.

Mr. Mosgrove taught at the school for two years earlier in his teaching career.

He was born in Hamilton, received his public education in Toronto and attended Queen's University in Kingston.

career started in Toronto. He comes to Haliburton by way of Central Algoma Secondary School west of Sudbury.

Forty-six high school, community college, university and exchange students who have been working on forestry, access points, cross-country ski trails and maintenance programs in the Minden District will soon be heading back to school.

As part of Ontario's Experience '76 summer employment program, the students will leave behind thousands of dollars worth of construction and maintenance projects, studies, maps and other valuable data.

In exchange, the students will take away funds for tuition and educational expenses, and a wealth of experience gained by a brief exposure to resource management and development.

Approximately equal numbers of male and female students were hired at pay rates ranging from $2.65 per hour for manual labourers to $3.50 per hour for project supervisors. Salaries were kept down to these levels to provide as many jobs as possible.

An innovative program this year involved the co-operation of the Municipality of Dysart et al and the Ministry of Natural Resources. Twenty-seven students developed twelve water access and day use areas on municipal lands for public use.

Two students designed and developed two systems of trails in the Victoria County Agreement Forest. Areas for snowshoeing and cross-country skiing have been marked and established and will be available for these activities this coming winter.

Forest improvement operations in the Victoria County

Agreement Forest and the Gooderham area have been conducted by six students, including one exchange student from the Province of Quebec.

Eight students working with Parks Branch have maintained and improved 25 public access points on Crown lands within the District.

General headquarters maintenance and involvements with Forest Protection Branch have been carried out by three students at Minden District Office and the two work centres at Haliburton and Gooderham. Most students have indicated that their summer's employment has been an enriching experience.

the 1975-6 fiscal year, according to Natural Resources Minister Leo Bernier.

The Crown timber harvest dropped to only 326 million cubic feet during 1975-6 from a previous high of 513 million cubic feet.

The major reason given for the dramatic decrease in the annual level of timber harvest was a lengthy labor strike which hit the pulp and paper industry during the second half of the year. Soft market conditions for lumber and plywood during the same capacity in Ontario since the early 1950's. Should the forest industry return to reasonably full levels of employment, however, we can anticipate an annual harvest from Crown forests of more than 600 million cubic feet due to the additional forest industry capacity added since 1972.

Provincial revenue from sale of Crown timber has also dropped to $19.4 million from the 1974-5 fiscal year total of $27.2 million.

Media helps safety council

The Canada Safety Council says it would be predicting Labour Day Weekend traffic fatalities far in excess of the anticipated 71-76 were if not for the assistance given by the press and broadcast media in passing safety reminders to the public.

Phil Farmer, a spokesman for the Council, suggested that there are some drivers who will never heed warnings, never take extra care, and who seldom slow down for anything. They will not have read this far.

However, the better drivers among us appreciate a tip and use it to stay out of trouble, and being human we can all forget something we once knew about safe driving just as we forget what we knew about trigonometry, Augustus Caesar, and the agricultural products of Outer Mongolia.

Worst Labour Day on record was 1966, when 102 died in traffic. Over the past five years, deaths have averaged 82 - rather higher than last year's total of 73. The Council still feels that, although there will be many extra cars on the roads, mandatory buckle-up rulings in both Ontario and Quebec will hold deaths down even if accidents increase.

Growing numbers of self-serve gasoline stations mean that more drivers have to clean their own windshields. The Council suggests that this be done by hand, off the road, as squashed bugs can smear under wiper operation, reducing visibility.

Earlier darkness means that all lights and signals should be checked for proper operation, and the Safety Council reminds those towing trailers to make sure following vehicles have an opportunity to pass safely every few miles - even if it means pulling right off the road.

Report from Queen's Park

By MPP John Eakins

In October 1975 a Select Committee was constituted to review the Fourth and Fifth Reports of the Ontario Commission on the Legislature and to advise on the implementation of the recommendations contained in these Reports. The First Interim Report of this Committee was submitted to the Legislature on December 4th, 1975, and adopted following debate in the House December 18th. Among the accepted recommendations of this First Interim Report was the establishment of constituency offices for Members of the Provincial Parliament. Another recommendation was that permission be granted for television and radio coverage of the proceedings of the Legislature. This was permitted during the spring session, and has become a regular feature of the Legislature's activities.

The Second Interim Report of the Select Committee is dated June 22nd, 1976. This Report could significantly change the operation of the Ontario Legislature and the role of the individual M.P.P. The "Morrow Report" - so-called after the Chairman of the Select Committee, Donald Morrow (P.C.), M.P.P. for Ottawa West - contains recommendations in 17 key areas of operation of the Legislature, many of which are innovative and interesting. Incidentally, the other members of the Committee are Margaret Campbell (St. George) and Murray Gaunt (Huron-Bruce) of the Liberal Party, Michael Cassidy (Ottawa Centre) and Elie Martel (Sudbury East) of the N.D.P., and Lorne Maeck (Parry Sound) with Robert Eaton (Middlesex) for the Conservatives.

According to the Interim Report, "the volume of Government business, ministerial expenditure estimates, committee work and constituency obligations place demands on Members' time that are, under present circumstances, virtually impossible to meet". Because of this situation, the Report recommends substantial re-organization of Legislative activity and an increase in the total number of Provincial Members, from the present 125 to 155, with a view of dealing more effectively with the increased work load. Provision for a research assistant for each elected Member is a further recommendation of the Report. This, combined with the smaller Ridings which would result from increasing the total number of Members, would facilitate better representation of the people of Ontario, and would also expand the role of back-bench MPPs.

In addition, the Report recommends that the Question Period of the Ontario Legislature have a duration of one hour, instead of the current 45 minutes, with each Opposition Party Leader permitted two lead-off questions, and the remainder of the time allocated to other questions on a rotation basis among Members. Such an arrangement would enable a greater number of MPPs to ask questions of the various Ministers.

The Report further recommends that one entire day be set aside for consideration of Private Member's Bills. At present, only one hour per week is available for this purpose, with each Party taking its turn, in rotation. In effect, the "Morrow Committee" suggests that all day Friday be used for discussion of Private Member's Bills, which should be allowed for each Bill, several could be dealt with each Friday, which would considerably expand the Members' activities and influence.

Committees of the Legislature would play a much expanded and more important role, if the recommendations of the "Morrow Committee" are accepted. Under the proposed revised system, eight Standing Committees would be established, with no Member being forced to serve on any two Committees. A Standing Committee would be able to call witnesses, to set up sub-committees, and, in general, to expand the depth and quality of their investigations. Here again, the aim is to foster and promote the involvement and input of as many Members as possible. These Committees would meet throughout the Session and be able to travel around the Province, as required.

The Committee's recommendations seek to change one practice which has, quite understandably, confused visitors to the Legislature. To date, at the time of a vote, the Speaker directs the Clerk to "call in the Members", and division bells ring. Those Members in the Chamber promptly leave, secure in the knowledge that the bells will ring for a long period, often in excess of half-an-hour - sometimes for several hours. The Report recommends that a fixed period be established, possibly twenty minutes, between the calling of a vote and the vote itself. This would provide sufficient time for Members to assemble and the fixed time-limitation would help to speed up proceedings in the Chamber.

See you next week.

Sentimental side of J.H. Burns

Editor's note: Joseph H. Burns had a sentimental side in his poetry which is clearly seen in this poem titled My Mother.

MY MOTHER

A year has passed since last I viewed
My mother's cold and tranquil face,
As on that wint'ry morn they bore
Her body to its resting place.

No more her gentle hand shall smooth
The steep and thorny path of life,
No more her earnest voice shall calm
The passions of contending strife.

No more, amid the changing scenes,
Her well remembered form I see,
But ever in my heart shall dwell
The one who was so dear to me.

She watched above by cradle-bed
And taught me childhood's little prayer
Through all the fleeting years of youth,
She tended me with loving care.

When manhood dawned with all its joy
With all its sorrows, grief and fear,
Still she was mother, kind and true.
With hand to guide and voice to cheer.

But one sweet mother heaven gives,
And soon from earth she may be borne;
Protect and love her while she lives,
You'll miss your mother when she's gone.

With Labour Day just around the corner the end of another summer season is in sight. Our Travel Councillors who have served us so capably throughout the summer will be shortly heading back to school. It is only through the services of these girls supplied by the Central Ontario Travel Association that we are able to keep the office open until 9 p.m. through July and August. We shall now find it necessary to cut back to shorter hours and to start with the office will be closed Labour Day.

We are not, however, relaxing because the summer is coming to a close - we still have much work to do for Fall and Winter promotions. We recently sent a newsletter to the membership in this regard, and to date the response has been underwhelming. We realize that everyone is busy, but we must have some immediate response if we are going to get these promotions arranged. Please take another look at your newsletter now and if there is anything you are not clear on, give us a call.

It's not that far ahead to Winter either and Cross-Country Skiing has been a subject of considerable conversation throughout the summer. It appears there is enough interest in this sport to merit the formation of a Cross-Country Ski Club. There are three groups who should find this of considerable interest. First of all, of course, there are the local residents who are interested in Cross-Country Skiing. Secondly, local commercial enterprise that would benefit from the Tourist traffic it would generate, and thirdly, other clubs from larger centres that could make use of any trail programme that was developed. The formation of a club can pool the interests of all these groups to come up with concrete action that will benefit them all. Our Snowmobile Association also indicated they would like to be involved so they could work in co-operation with the club. Initial plans would be to work with resort operators to develop trails adjacent to them, work with municipalities to develop trails in their parkland, and organize competition rallies and races. A formal meeting will be held at Deer Lodge on Tuesday, September 14, to get things started. If you are among any of the above mentioned interest groups, we strongly urge you to attend. If you would like further information you may contact either John Teljeur at 457-2281 evenings, or the Chamber Office at 286-1760 during the day.

Next week marks the first anniversary of the existence of this column. We hope to make it a bit special. See you then.

Kinsmen elect new president

Wayne R. Boddy, 35, of Woodstock, Ontario was elected 56th National President of the Association of Kinsmen Clubs during the organization's Annual Convention held here this week.

Boddy succeeds Mr. Jim Searrow of Prince Albert, Sask., as chief executive for this country's only all-Canadian young men's service club with Clubs in over 540 Canadian communities.

Eakins not optimistic that Province will help Pine Grove

Victoria Haliburton MPP John Eakins is expecting to get a report from the Ministry of Natural Resources on Tornado damage at Pine Grove Point resort camp near Harcourt but he isn't optimistic about what will be done about it.

Mr. Eakins said that he visited Pine Grove Point the day of the tornado and has been trying to get help for the owners of the camp, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Atkinson since that time.

He said the scene that day at the camp was "pretty grim".

Mr. Eakins said that he understands that it has to be declared a disaster area before the province can do anything.

"I am not that optimistic that they will do anything," he said.

Pine Grove Point resort camp was hit by a tornado Aug. 13. The storm overturned trailers, damaged buildings and knocked down a number of trees.

The tornado hit the camp at about 5:10 a.m. and demolished three trailers. There were about 60 people in the camp at the time but no injuries were reported.

Mr. Eakins said he was successful in getting Experience 76 crews to help in the cleanup operation at the camp.

Gull and Burnt watersheds

During the week of August 13 to August 20 the flow from the Gull River Watershed was reduced by about 200 c.f.s., giving a flow of about 600 c.f.s. at week's end. The flow from the Burnt River Watershed was reduced from approximately 430 c.f.s. to near minimum in order to obtain more even percentages of the two watersheds. No changes have been made on the Mississauga River, Eel's Creek and Jack's Creek Watersheds, and flows remained fairly stable over the week. It is expected that the flows out the reservoirs for most of the coming week will remain about the same. The storage on the Reservoir Lakes was 70 per cent on August 16th.

The restriction at the outlet of Hawk Lake, caused by the collapsed causeway, became more dangerous to boaters as the drawdown of Hawk Lake continued. An agreement has been made to stop the drawdown with 10.50 feet of water on the sill of the dam, enabling persons to have continued access to marina facilities and cottages. All persons navigating through this area are advised to exercise caution due to strong currents and shallow water. This reduced drawdown of Hawk Lake will mean taking about two or three inches more water off the other reservoir lakes to compensate for the lost storage on Hawk Lake.

With continued cool, rainy weather, the Kawartha Lakes started the week at, or slightly above their navigation maxima, and flows down the Otonabee River were increased about 600 c.f.s. to about 1,300 c.f.s. This has allowed the Hydro Plant at Lakefield to resume operations temporarily.

Liberal leader wants revision in Wintario

Ontario Liberal Leader Stuart Smith today urged a revision of Wintario regulations so that grants are made on the basis of the varying abilities of communities to raise matching funds.

"During my tour of Northern Ontario last week," Dr. Smith said, "it was apparent that many small communities do not have as prosperous an economic base as others from which to raise the funds required to match Wintario grants.

"As a result I believe the grants should be made on a formula based on the economic status of the communities applying for Wintario grants. Perhaps the per capita income of a community might be a suitable method of providing a base for adjusting grants.

"Certainly some recognition must be made of the fact that it is easier, for simple economic reasons, to raise funds through voluntary campaigns in some communities than it is in others."

Dr. Smith said that the principle of communities raising their own funds must be maintained to preserve the spirit of voluntary self-help in the communities.

"I do not believe that the spirit of voluntary service within a community should be destroyed by abdicating responsibility for fund raising within the local community," Dr. Smith said.

As a result, he added, he was opposed to any suggestions that dollar matching provisions required for Wintario grants should be eliminated.

"What we do need in Wintario is a recognition of the fact that it is much more difficult to raise money through local volunteer programs in some communities than it is in others. This is especially true in view of the fact that many small communities are now faced with the prospect of raising money to replace arenas that no longer meet structural safety standards established by the Ontario Government."

Dr. Smith said that present Wintario grant distribution regulations provide funds for those communities which are

Some 46,200 Ontario families, receiving provincial financial assistance, were mailed supplementary allowances for their school-age children today, by the Ministry of Community and Social Services.

Introduced in 1975, this special provincial Family Benefits payment provides $25 each for children ages 4 to 12 and $50 each for those 13 and over.

Purpose of the allowances, totalling $3,438,350, is to help meet clothing and other costs related to attending school.

About 40,000 mothers, with dependent children, will be assisted, along with 3,700 families where the father is permanently unemployed or disabled and 2,500 foster mothers.

Family Benefits recipients totalled 105,527 in August and include the blind, disabled, elderly, permanently unemployed and foster parents, along with sole-support mothers.

The association president, W. L. McCorriston welcomed the attending members, families and friends and expressed hope that the roast would become an annual event.

He thanked the organizing committee of Paul Shilton, Floyd Pehlemann, Ross Dyer, Ross Partridge and Gordon Ogg for the job they did in planning the event and "producing a thoroughly enjoyable evening for all who attended."

The cooks were kept busy preparing 20 dozen cobs of corn and the chief chef barbequed over 200 weiners.

Orienteering meet planned

An orienteering meeting will be held at the Boy Scout Reserve, Saturday, Sept. 25.

Orienteering is a sport similar to car rallying, except that it is done on foot.

A news release states, "At an orienteering meet you are given a very detailed map on which a number of circles have been marked identifying the course you are to follow."

The release points out participants have to read their maps and navigate to the markers located in the terrain corresponding to the circles on the map.

The event is open to all members of the public and previous experience in orienteering is not necessary.

"A beginners course with instruction will be available for novices. The event and location would also be very suitable to someone who is just interested in a leisurely walk in the woods enjoying the Haliburton "Fall Colors," the release says.

Registration for the meet will take place at the parking lot of the Scout Reserve from 10:30 a.m. until 12:30 p.m. the day of the event.

MTC will replace Highway 648 bridge John Eakins states

John Eakins, MPP Victoria-Haliburton has announced that he received assurance from the Honourable James Snow, Minister of Transportation and Communications, that his ministry people are actively engaged in the necessary work which will lead to the replacement of the one-lane bridge on Highway 648 near Wilberforce, and that this work has a high priority, and that there will be no undue delay in getting this project underway.

"The Minister has stated that he agrees with the assessment of the problem by the local Member, and that they are planning to replace the existing bridge with a suitable structure in the very near future, and that in order to prepare a reasonably economical contract, the Ministry is considering including the bridge with another project in the vicinity," a release from Mr. Eakins stated.

Mr. Eakins made a presentation to the Minister, following many calls and letters from the local people, including professional engineers who have lived in the area.

The Local Member, in visiting the area personally, said that he was amazed to find that such a situation existed on such a busy highway.

Labor strike timber drop

A prolonged labor strike which seriously affected the pulp and paper industry together with soft market conditions during the same period were major factors in a 36 per cent reduction of timber harvesting from Ontario's Crown lands during the 1975-6 fiscal year, according to Natural Resources Minister Leo Bernier.

The Crown timber harvest dropped to only 326 million cubic feet during 1975-6 from a previous high of 513 million cubic feet.

The major reason given for the dramatic decrease in the annual level of timber harvest was a lengthy labor strike which hit the pulp and paper industry during the second half of the year. Soft market conditions for lumber and plywood during the same time as pulp and paper mill shutdowns also contributed to the low level of forest products harvest.

"Ironically," commented Mr. Bernier, "the decrease came toward the end of a three-year period which we enjoyed the largest expansion of forest industry capacity in Ontario since the early 1950's. Should the forest industry return to reasonably full levels of employment, however, we can anticipate an annual harvest from Crown forests of more than 600 million cubic feet due to the additional forest industry capacity added since 1972."

Provincial revenue from sale of Crown timber has also dropped to $19.4 million from the 1974-5 fiscal year total of $27.2 million.

In Memoriam

DAVIS - In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Arnold, who passed away, September 4th, 1973.

A beautiful memory of one so dear,
We cherish still with love sincere;
A day that comes with sad regret
To one that we will never forget.

Lovingly remembered by wife Alice and family.

DAVIS - In loving memory of Dad, Arnold, who passed away September 4th, 1973.

As time unfolds another year
Memories keep you ever near Silent thoughts of times together
Hold memories that will last forever.

Remembered by daughter
Gwenn, son-in-law Bill, grandchildren Martin, Ted,
Willy and Dawn.

DAVIS - In loving memory of my dear son, Arnold Edward, who passed away September 4th, 1973.

No one heard the footsteps
Of the Angel drawing near
That took from earth to Heaven
The one we loved so dear
He has not really left us
Or has he travelled far
Just entered God's beautiful garden
And left the gate ajar.

Lovingly remembered and never forgotten, by his mother.

Park staffs checking increased vandalism

In recent years a great deal of concern has been expressed over increase in rowdiness and vandalism in Ontario's Provincial Parks. If a recent court session held in Whitney is any indication, then Algonquin Park's staff is doing its best to reverse

Injured in ski accident

A 29-year-old man suffered injuries to his hip, right arm and left leg in a water skiing accident Saturday at 6 p.m.

Berndy Heumann attempted to coast close to shore when skiing and misjudged the distance landing on some rocks.

He was skiing on Gull Lake.

current trends. A total of sixty charges were laid under the Provincial Parks Act, the Fisheries Regulations and the Game and Fish Act. The cases were heard on Friday August 13, 1976, and offenders may be putting more stock in the old superstition, as fines ranged from $28.00 to $200.00.

Twenty-seven of the charges were laid under the Provincial Parks Act. These involved such offences as - camping without a permit, using abusive language or excessive noise and re-entering a park within 72 hours of an eviction.

Park regulations were created to provide all visitors with an opportunity to enjoy a peaceful, relaxing outdoor experience. Unfortunately, there continues to be a small minority who have no respect for those regulations or for their fellow campers. Ministry staff, with the co-operation of campers, are working to eliminate this unwanted element from the Park experience.

Gull watershed flow reduced

Early in the week of August 20 to 27, the flows out of the Gull River

Watershed were increased to about 840 c.f.s., while the flows on the Burnt River Watershed were increased from near minimum flows to about 210 c.f.s.

Substantial increases in flows were made on the Mississauga River and Eel's Creek Watersheds and flows were increased slightly on the Jack's Creek Watershed. The increase flows were made necessary by the recent hot, dry weather over the whole Trent-Severn Watershed. The storage on the Reservoirs was 67 per cent on August 23rd.

The Kawartha Lakes started the week close to their maximum navigation levels, and flows down the Otonabee River have been reduced to the minimum in anticipation of greatly increases evaporation losses.

Parks Canada is presently developing and improved day use area at Lock 22, just north of Trent University on River Road. New features will be, improved parking facilities, a boat launching ramp, barbecues and more picnic tables.

Steamships in the county

Muskoka has long been an area famous for its steamships that once graced its lakes and rivers, but how many people remember when Haliburton County also has this early form of transportation?

A passage in "Up to Date, or, The Life of a Lumberman" by George S. Thompson reference is made to a steamer on Lake Kashagawigamog, "When navigation opened in spring, which was about the first day of May, Steve went into partnership with a man who had built a small steamer during the winter. It was the first steamer that ever run on those waters; the shanting boys named it the Royal Mail Steamship "Bull of the Woods." She was built on the stem winding stem setting principle, and was modelled as no other boat was ever modelled; so it is difficult to describe her--She had to be seen as well as heard, for the noise she made when in motion could be heard for miles, and the old hunters vowed vengeance on her, for the infernal noise she made frightened all the moose, deer, bears, wolves and other large game out of the country, nor has any fish been caught in those waters since. We tried to take a photo of her but failed; the camera refused to work point blank. I did get somewhere near it once. I secured a pot of coal tar and made a sketch of her on the side of the postmaster's boathouse, which had just been newly painted with whitewash!"

Richard Tatley, an historian from the Muskoka area, was in Haliburton last week to find out about the use of steam boats in the area.

Mr. Tatley, author of the book "Steamboating in Muskoka", said that he is presently preparing a second book which will likely have a section about the steamboats used in the Highlands.

He said that he has found evidence of at least three steam boats used on the Gull River system from Minden to Moore's Falls.

Mr. Tatley added that he also has the names of three steamers which once ran on Lake Kashagawigamog although he suspects that there were only two and possibly one with three different names.

He noted that there were two aligators used on Kashagawigamog in the 1900's. An aligator was a steam powered saw, which usually was driven by a wheel and used by lumbermen. Mr. Tatley explained that the name aligator came from the fact that it was possible for these boats to pull themselves over land.

The earliest steamship Mr. Tatley has found in the area was built in 1866 and the latest was in Minden around 1910. The boat in Minden was known as the Kathleen and he is not sure whether it was privately operated or not. Mr. Tatley pointed out that it was used for excursions into the Gull Lake area.

"I have not found evidence of any excursion steamers on Lake Kashagawigamog", Mr. Tatley said. He pointed out that with the amount of lumbering going on in the area the lake would have been a dangerous place for a boat with tourists.

Mr. Tatley said that it is possible that remains of old steamers could be found on the bottom of some of the lakes in Haliburton County although he doubts if the boats were ever as prominent in this area as they were in Muskoka.

He said that he is interested in obtaining any picture, information and any "fairly authentic" material on the early steamship business in the Haliburton Highlands.

95 occurrences

The Minden detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police investigated 95 general occurrences and 15 motor vehicle collisions during the period from Aug. 23 to Aug. 29.

The detachment cruisers logged 8,043 miles during the week.

Three persons were charged with impaired driving, six compassionate messages were delivered, seven persons were charged with operating vessels with insufficient lifejackets, 10 breakins were investigated and 10 persons were charged with Liquor Licence Act violations.
